Overview: Water Quality Education Program will provide workshops on surface and ground water quality, water conservation, low impact Development and water management to enhance the quality of the District of Columbia residents.

Objectives: To teach District residents the following:

1. The sources of water contamination and how to reduce manmade contamination and natural hazards.
2. The importance of testing drinking water for human health.
3. To adapt low impact development technique to reduce storm water from entering to our drinking water.
4. To manage our watershed for enhancing our water quality.

Potential Outcome(s):

1. District residents will be aware of the impact of water quality on human health
2. DC drinking water quality will improved
3. The quality of life of the District of Columbia residents will be enhanced
4. Improving DC residents' economy by reducing energy use and cost
